A BETTER WAY TO MANAGE YOUR SALES LEADS

An all new better way to Drive Sales with Effective Lead Management.

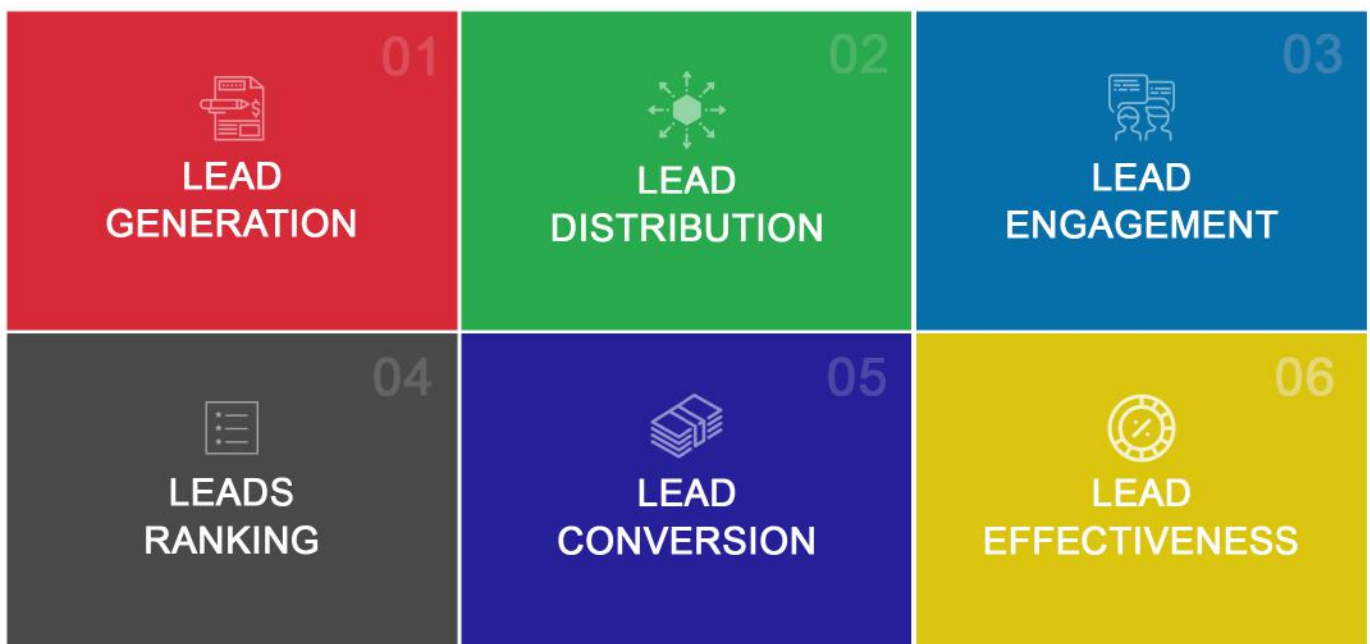

Every organization, small, medium or large enterprise, is on the lookout for new leads to keep their pipeline fresh with new prospects. With an increase in the flow of leads, you need a better way to capture and manage leads. You can give your sales and management team the power to convert leads to qualified contacts and ultimately into paying customers with lead management software. The more effectively an organization uses their system, the greater its productivity, more solid its lead pipeline and the better it will be at converting leads into sales revenue. Zoho CRM has powerful functionality for managing the entire lead generation and management process. Implemented and used properly, the result you can expect from Zoho is both a return on your CRM investment and a more successful business.

With Zoho CRM you are able to score (rank) leads using different criteria. Rankings can then be used for more focused sales efforts and better use of your sales people's valuable time. Ranking can also drive marketing automation, better reporting and analysis.

A common problem with lead management is lost business because leads "fall through the cracks." With Zoho's ranking features you're ensured that leads are not overlooked.

Leads can be manually entered, imported from lists and captured from web forms. Additional features in Zoho allow you to integrate your CRM database with Social Media and even observe and engage with visitors on your website.

Let's take a deeper look at the different stages of lead management in conjunction with Zoho functionality. We'll take a moment to speak to the following steps in the lead handling process:

LEAD GENERATION

It refers to the capturing of consumers' interest towards products or services who might be looking to make a purchase. Zoho CRM provides you with different methods to generate leads: Form Filling, Quick Create, Importing, and Developer API.

SMART WEB FORMS FILLING

Zoho CRM offers pre-built and customizable web forms to help your sales team produce quality leads. It turns marketing campaigns into lead generation machines. Without writing a single line of code, you can build forms and capture leads into your CRM. You will also be able to easily host pre-built web forms in Google Sites, Unbounce, Joomla, and other content management systems.

LEADS APP GENERATION

Use the leads app to scan business cards and QR codes and instantly push new contact information into CRM. You can either save it as a contact in your phone or as a lead in Zoho CRM. This allows you to follow up right away, automatically incorporate new contacts, and integrate with your other tools such as a Card Scanner.

LIVE CHAT

Right from your chat window, engage with your website visitors in real time and convert them into leads. You can assist by proactively chatting with them. You can also find whether a visitor is a recurring customer or a new prospect. It's easy to see your traffic segmented into leads, prospects, and customers. Such segmentation aids in personalizing future interactions.

SOCIAL MEDIA

Let the power of social media combine with your sales process to build stronger relationships, create brand awareness and help you close deals faster. You can manage your social media platform profiles under a Brand. From sharing content to closing deals, you can manage all social media conversations in real time with Zoho CRM. It also lets you focus on social media conversations important to your business.

LEADS DISTRIBUTION

Manually distributing and assigning leads to specific individuals may become a tedious task. Zoho CRM Lead Management allows you to create a pre-defined workflow that lets you assign the leads automatically to the sales representative on the basis of specific criteria such as geography, product or department. Round robin queues can be utilized to optimize your customer follow-ups and route leads equally. This makes sure that you do not miss out important leads just because of improper engagement methods.

LEAD ENGAGEMENT

It becomes difficult to deal with the large chunk of leads on a daily basis. With Zoho workflow automation, email integration and task delegation, your team can engage leads more efficiently. Improving responsiveness has been proven to be one the most important determinants of success.

LEAD RANKING

Businesses may find it difficult to determine which leads are worthy of the greatest efforts. With Zoho Scoring Rules you can use the technology to rank leads. The system can help everyone make a determination of your most promising leads based on powerful criteria.

Zoho is able to apply weight to a range of interactions, such as emails, calls, surveys, or social media activities to achieve a rounded picture of the quality of your leads. Rules allow you to both raise and lower a lead's rank. For example, an opened email can lift the score while an unopened or bounced email can lower a leads ranking.

LEAD CONVERSION

Key milestones in a relationship can be tracked, such as the conversion from a lead to a more qualified contact. Leads and contacts can be associated to "deals" as well as to "accounts" including other contacts from the same organization. While converting Leads you may also create follow-up tasks. At this point, the lead management process is complete and you don't have to go back further to start from the beginning.

LEAD EFFECTIVENESS

Through different marketing sources, you can keep track of your Return on Investment. Key performance indicators like conversion ratios, cost per deal, and more, gives you an insight on how to improve your campaigns and the performance of your team.

WORKING WITH LEADS

Leads are the raw details gathered about an individual or representatives of an organization. They help the sales department in identifying potential customers. Collecting and managing the leads is the first step in the sales process. Once the leads are collected, it is vital to manage and follow them until they qualify to become prospective customers. The leads feature a perfect combination of the company (account), the person (contact), and business opportunity (deal) on the basis of your CRM requirement.

MANAGE YOUR ACCOUNTS

In a traditional Business to Business scenario, with the account it means a company or department within a company. It can be the organization your company is currently doing business with or planning to do business in the near future. This account stores the company information such as the address, number of employees, annual revenue and other required details.

During the pre-sales, you can associate an account with contacts within the company and prospective business opportunities. Once you're done with the sale, you can also provide Customer Support & Service through Zoho CRM - Case Management.

WORKING WITH CONTACTS

Contacts are people with whom you contact either for business pursuits or personal reasons. If it is B2C scenario, contact is the most important information for acquiring customers. However, in B2B business, contact is part of the organization details that you are doing business.

Another important function of the contacts module is that they can be used for customer acquisition as well as for purchasing the products from the vendors. As per the business process, contact can be related to an account as well as vendors.

WORKING WITH DEALS

For sales department, deals play the vital role for it helps in generating the real revenue for the organization. In a typical B2B scenario, all the deals have to undergo complete sales cycle, which begins from identification of prospects to losing or winning those prospects. The activities involved in the sales cycle include sending product information to prospects, carrying out product demonstration, sending sales quotations and carrying out the negotiations.

CARRYING OUT THE ACTIVITIES

CRM keeps track of all the tasks, meetings, calls, events and activity records. The users are also able to organize numerous records with other activities such as follow up, pre-sales and post sales activities, phone conversations etc. This can be helpful in initiating and tracking action based items and recording the results of the meetings or events thereof. A BETTER WAY TO GO MOBILE

Mobility is no longer an option or differentiator - it is now necessity!

Practically speaking, we're all carrying smartphone. Which means today, the population is almost always connected to one another, able to interact, transact and obtain nearly any information they desire. The ramifications for businesses is as great as it is for individuals. The consumer has been empowered in ways that we hard to imagine just a decade ago. And, with 5-G beginning to roll-out, with transmission speeds that dwarf 4-G, the possibility are as profound as the imagination.

HERE ARE SOME PREDICTIONS ABOUT MOBILE USE BOTH AMONGST CONSUMERS AND WORKERS:

- By the year 2022, around 43% of the total global workforce will be mobile savvy.
- By the end of 2018, 79% of total global internet use will be on mobile devices.
- 66% of Americans now own a smartphone with 200 million number of users across all states.
- 90% IT decision makers hold the view that mobility helps in business growth, enhance productivity, customer engagement & competitiveness.

Technology is a sword that cuts both ways, across nearly all industries, fields of business and areas of life. Those who are best equipped to leverage mobility will do the cutting. Those who fall behind will feel the sword!

When it comes to business's needs to collect, share, manage and use data to conduct business and serve customers, it has become mission critical to incorporate mobility. The form factor, the interface, functionality and ability to support business processes must extend to mobile devices such as smartphones and tablets.

Organization staff and management demand ubiquitous access with the ability to perform their jobs from any locations, without being compelled to carry "hardware."

Zoho's software suite answers your mobility needs. Mobile functionality is designed into Zoho products from the start. The user can transition between their desktop and mobile device seamlessly. The interface remains familiar and your capabilities, both in terms of the application as well as your job responsibilities go with you where you go.
